

Irish Probates and Wills

Index to Irish Wills 1484-1858

Before 1857, the Church of Ireland had responsibility for testamentary affairs. Consistorial Courts in each diocese were responsible for granting probate. The courts also had the power to confer letters of administration to the next of kin for those who died intestate.

Each court was responsible for wills and administrations in its own diocese. However, where the estate included property worth more than £5 in another diocese, responsibility passed to the Perogative Court.

- Michael Heade from Irishtown, Kilkenny, died 1739. Mary Heade, widow, granted deceased effects. (see also section on Bonds).
- Edmond Heade died 1834 from Cashel and Emly. Administrator Margaret Heade, Cloran. (This is Edmond Headd at Cloran 1830 and Margaret English)
- Index for Cashel and Emly Dioceses (Waterford Registry) - Catherine Hayde, 1847 from Graigue (Clonmel).
- James Heade from Mayfield, Tipperary (Cashel parish). Died 1816. Mar Mary Herrick.

Probates and Wills from 1858

A register of probates and wills was maintained from 1858 to 1975. The National Archives in Dublin put an index on line in 2014.

It shows date of death, address, occupation, value of estate and beneficiaries. These can be summarised as:
